

Nihad Othman <n.othman@najah.edu>

Your manuscript status has been changed

An-Najah Journals <journals@najah.edu>
To: n.othman@najah.edu

Sun, Apr 3, 2022 at 10:31 PM

Greetings,

The editorial board of Palestinian Medical and Pharmaceutical Journal (Pal. Med. Pharm. J.) is pleased to inform you that your submitted manuscript is suitable for publication.

Manuscript title	The Molecular Basis of the Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome Coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2)
Submitted at	Nov. 26, 2021
Status	Accepted

Editor comments:

Dear Author,

I want to congratulate you on your accepted paper personally. Author must do the following for us to complete and finalize the article production:

- Authors must comply with the provided template.

Please keep in mind that we will not continue with article production until the writers complete the prerequisites mentioned above. Please email it directly to my email.

The deadline for resubmission is 10/04/2022. Please notify us if you need to extend the deadline for any reason.

Kind regards,

Mohammad Qneibi, PhD

Associate Editor,

Palestinian Medical and Pharmaceutical Journal (PMPJ)

Nablus, Palestine

Email: mqneibi@najah.edu

<https://pmpj.najah.edu/en/#/issue/218>

Reviewers comments:

Review type	Modifications confirmation
Submitted at	March 25, 2022, 7:45 p.m.
Final decision	Yes
Comments	Dear editor, The authors addressed my comments and added new data for the omicron variant to the body of the manuscript and the summary table. Once this manuscript will be formatted into the new template, authors should pay attention to the spaces, especially between the text and citations (numbers).

Good luck

Review type	Modifications confirmation
Submitted at	March 20, 2022, 9:44 a.m.
Final decision	Yes
Comments	The article is ready to proceed through the publication process

--
Dean of Scientific Research
An-Najah National University scresearch@najah.edu